

The Disappearing Donuts

By Lillian Graham (8 ½) and Arya Gleason (8 ½)
Massachusetts, U.S.A.

The baddest purple unicorn in Hoodez has been coming into town at night and stealing all of the hay, apples, carrots, and sprinkle donuts from the farm and donut shop. The farmer and his wife, who makes the donuts for the town came to Wizard Pebbledash last week to borrow books from his magical library about unicorns so they could learn how to keep this bad purple unicorn out of their fields and orchards. Wizard Pebbledash noticed the bakeshop has had it's closed sign in the window for three days in a row and no one has smelled the sweet scent of Mrs. Sprinkarot's world famous strawberry frosted sprinkle carrot cake donuts either. He is worried that the simple farmers have gone into the Hoodez Dungeon to try and stop the bad purple unicorn all on their own.

"Can you please go and find Mr. and Mrs. Sprinkarot and bring them home safely. I'm worried no one will ever taste Mrs. Sprinkarot's world famous donut treats ever again."

You decide to take the job as your tummy rumbles thinking about the delicious strawberry frosted carrot cake sprinkle donuts.

You discover Mr. Sprinkarot's knapsack lying on the ground with 3 books spilling out. One of the books is open to a page about "How to defend yourself if you get hit by unicorn magic." Another is open to a chapter entitled, "Unicorn's favorite treats." Finally, there's a third book called How To Tame A Unicorn and a potion bottle labeled "Magical Creature Antidote"

Two ratfolk and a gremlin are looking through the bag and saying, "There must be more of those tasty donuts in here somewhere!"

Place two Ratfolk and one Gremlin adjacent to the center square of the tile.

Once the Ratfolk and Gremlin have been defeated, whoever revealed Tile A gains the "Magical Creature Antidote." Search the Special Items deck for the Antidote card. The antidote now makes the hero who uses it immune to black magic instead of poison.

You see a stone pillar with a chest on top surrounded by slimy, hot, steaming goo. You start to reach for the chest, but you suddenly hear whistling coming from the doorway on the other side. Then an orc appears "Sally dinner time!"

The orc presses a button on the wall and a bridge appears! The orc walks across and starts to feed the octopus, which had suddenly appeared in the blink of an eye. It seemed like he was feeding it something that looked like Mrs. Sprinkarot's strawberry frosted carrot cake with sprinkles donuts! But the octopus wasn't eating, it was looking at you. As the orc looks up he says "Hey what you doin in here!?"

Place an Orc on the wooden bridge next to the Octopus illustration. Place the Octopus on top of the Octopus illustration to start it's turn.

The octopus can only end it's move in a goo space. If the octopus doesn't make a successful attack, it vanishes in the goo. Skip it's next enemy phase turn and place the octopus standee in the goo square on the opposite side of the bridge. Heroes can still attack the octopus during the Hero phase when this is happening.

Heroes may not search the treasure chest until the Octopus is defeated, because every time you try to search the chest, the Octopus puts its tentacle around the treasure chest to block you. This is the Octopus's only free action.

L You see a hay pile and half of a nibbled donut that looks like Mrs. Sprinkarot's laying at the edge of the hay pile. Then suddenly you hear shouting that sounds like Mr. Sprinkarot's voice.

"Let me out of here!!!!"

When you look towards the sound, you don't see Mr. Sprinkarot, but a trap door in the floor with a large orc standing on top of it. The large orc looks at you and says to his gremlin friend, "More cooks for the kitchen!" The gremlin nods and they move to try to trap you.

! Place one Orc on top of the trap door space of tile L.

Place one Gremlin on top of the pile of hay.

If the heroes successfully defeat the gremlin and orc, they may free Mr. Sprinkarot from the trap in the floor. "Oh thank you!" he says. "They took my loving wife to force her to make her famous strawberry sprinkle frosted carrot cake donuts for The Bad purple Unicorn and all the other monsters in this horrible dungeon! Please help me get her back safely!"

P As your hero party enters the room, you see a mean purple unicorn stomping its hooves furiously at a Ratfolk who was dressed in a black chef's coats.

"These are horribly dry and disgusting! You must have made them wrong!" shouts the unicorn.

"We followed the recipe EXACTLY!" the Ratfolk squeaked.

You notice Mrs. Sprinkarot in the corner of the room is smiling sneakily and laughing to herself. The Bad Purple Unicorn notices too and yells, "Hey! What did you do?!?"

You jump at her cruel tone kicking a pebble that pops up and hits the Bad Purple Unicorn in the derriere. The Bad Purple Unicorn spins around and sees you. She screams, "Get them!"

! Place the Unicorn, and a Ratfolk on any available square of tile P.

End of the game

 The Bad Purple Unicorn yells, "Her donuts aren't that special anyway!" Then she turns and trots deeper into the dungeon to hide.

"Hey!" Mrs. Sprinkarot says offended by the attack on her baking skills.

"Thank you for rescuing us from that evil purple unicorn." Mr. Sprinkarot exclaims.

Before you can say anything, Mrs. Sprinkarot jumps in and adds, "Yes thank you. As a thank you for rescuing us, you get free donuts from my bakeshop for life!"

"Uh thanks, but why were these donuts so horrible? You used to make the best donuts in town."

You say to Mrs. Sprinkarot.

"They forced me to give them my special recipe, but I left out the most important secret ingredient that makes them soooooooyummy!" She says with a laugh. "Don't worry, I promise all of your donuts will have the secret ingredient. And, you are welcome to come help me in the kitchen any time you want."

Well done adventurers, you've won the quest!

 "Ah-ha-ha-ha-ha! You are no match for my black magic!" The Bad Purple Unicorn yells.

Then she casts one more super spell exploding all of the delicious baked goods and creating a dark magic portal that starts sucking everything near to it in. The Unicorn directs her minions to grab Mrs. Sprinkarot and pull her into the portal with them.

In a cloud of sprinkles and covered in strawberry frosting, you manage to dash out of the dungeon just before The Bad Purple Unicorn transports everyone to it's super secret layer.

You lost the quest today. Better luck next time!